

Exploring Options for analytics

Recently there have been some internet posts and articles about a recent European legal decision related to privacy and what information is collected and related to Google Analytics, Google Fonts, and GDPR. In the process of reading and looking for options and alternatives that need to be explored to be in compliance.

Change – it is always happening