

Hoping for an early Spring

It's now February 2021. It's really really cold outside so I am hoping for an early spring. Some sunshine and warm weather would help everyone's mood. Even with a Nor'easter with lots of snow in the forecast for the next couple of days I am still hoping that spring comes quickly. The gently falling snowflakes are starting to pile up now. Wondering if the groundhog can even come out since PA has lots of snow already.

Update February 5, 2021 – Well, the groundhog says it will be six more weeks of winter.

Till true – been spending time digging out from 12 inches of snow over the last couple of days. Looks like I will be waiting for a while yet.
