

Stay Home March 20, 2020

Yesterday March 20-2020, New York Gov. Andrew Cuomo ordered all “nonessential” businesses to institute mandatory work from home for 100% of their workforces. That means everyone will be joining the STAY HOME directive. There are a few exceptions for folks who work in grocery stores, truck drivers, and certain “essential services” but everyone else has been directed to STAY HOME.

If there is anything I can do to help please let me know. I have been “working from home” as a Virtual Assistant, Web Developer, and Technology Trainer for several years so I have mastered the “work from home” directive.

Things are still in “STAY HOME” mode and things are very quiet in the neighborhood and Signs of spring are starting to show up in-between the snow and rain. Yates County has had it’s first confirmed case of the pandemic virus and the local newspapers are asking seasonal visitors to stay away since it will overwhelm our local resources. We are the smallest county in New York State and have limited medical and hospital resources if people get ill.
