Today is World Kindness Day

Kindness. The world needs more kindness and understanding about differences.

We are just human beings and each one of us is unique and special in our own way.

It is okay to be different. We all deserve love and caring and kindness.