

Stories in Miniature Course

During the next three months I want to work on my story writing skills. I know that my writing skills could use some improvement to stop being so boring and dull.

I am going to start with keeping a writing journal, complete a self-paced course from a writer that I admire (Hanneke) and see how much I can improve. I keep a journal of tech related updates for the various sites I manage but have not done personal journaling.

I recently purchased STORIES in MINIATURE, a self-paced new course from Hanneke of Enchanted Marketing, who I have bought writing courses from in the past. I really like her training style and content. It's currently on Early Bird pricing discount so grab it to save some money while you can.

I really admire and have followed Hanneke for years so you should check it out and see if her style and training courses will meet your needs.
